

Abstract

The invention is directed to methods and compositions that can be used in the treatment of inflammation, pain and cardiovascular disorders. Methods and compositions are described involving the combination of a thromboxane A₂ receptor antagonist and an inhibitor specific for cyclooxygenase-2.